Since the death of Cardinal Richard the distinction of being the oldest member of the French episcopate has fallen to Mr. Monnier, titular bishop of Lydda, who became a priest in 1843.

Rev. Peter Chang, the first Chinese Catholic priest to visit this country, is twenty-seven years old. He wears his hair in a long one down his back. He speaks German fluently, but does not know a word of English.

F. L. Marston, who is known in England as the Staffordshire Spurgeon and is only nineteen, is one of the most successful Baptist evangelists of that country, this being his eighth year of Christian work in behalf of others.

Things Theatrical.

The Size of France.

France contains 207,218 square miles, being about one-fifth smaller than Texas, one-tenth smaller than the two Dakotas and Minnesota combined, and almost exactly the same area as the New England and middle states, with Ohio added.

English Colonies in America.

From the founding of the first English colony in America, Virginia in 1607, to that of the last, Georgia in 1733, was a century and a quarter. During this time thirteen colonies were established, extending from New France on the north to New Spain on the south, and laying claim to all the land from the Atlantic to the Pacific, then called the South sea.

SEARCH RIVER FOR BODY.
Francis Kileen of Bellows Falls, Miss.

Bellows Falls, June 8.—Men and boys have been searching the banks of the Connecticut river and dragging the river since early this morning believing that Francis Kileen of this town was drowned in the river yesterday afternoon, since when the boy has been missing. A general search for the lad was conducted all through last night, but it was not then believed he was probably the victim of a drowning accident.

CRUSHED BY MARBLE SLAB.
Adelard Guilford, a Mill Hand at Rutland, Killed Under Stone.

Rutland, June 8.—Adelard Guilford, a mill hand, was crushed to death at the Vermont marble company's plant here Saturday afternoon under a block of marble weighing 10 tons.

The man was assisting others in removing the block to one of the gangs, when the stone boat on which the marble was being drawn tipped over, Guilford was being broken. His back, arms and legs being broken.

A physician was summoned, but the man was dead when he arrived.

Guilford was 45 years of age, and had lived here several years. He leaves a wife and five small children.

ABOUT THE STATE

At the annual musical club elections at Tufts college, Medford, Mass. Sumner E. Darling, '09, of Hardwick, was chosen secretary.

Fifty-three licenses have been granted to wholesale and retail milk dealers to sell milk in Burlington. This is fewer than were issued June 1, a year ago.

R. W. Smith, manager of the Corona marble mill at Brandon for the Vermont Marble Co., has received orders to shut down the mill immediately for an indefinite period.

W. N. Robinson of Sutton, will probably be confined to his bed several months from the effect of injuries which he suffered to one hip by being caught between his loaded dump cart and a post.

The report of the Vermont soldiers' home, Bennington, for the ten days ending May 31 is as follows: Average members present, 71; average out on furlough, 29; making a total number absent and present of 91. There was one death during that period.

Convicted of neglect of a child which he regarded as an infant phenomenon because it had fourteen toes and ten fingers, Joseph Kenison has been taken to the house of correction, Rutland from Bellows Falls to serve a sentence of 98 days. The child, which is ten years old, had been used for exhibition purposes by Kenison, who, it is understood, was trying to make a living by this means.

Last year, at commencement, ex-Gov. J. G. McCullough presented the university of Vermont, Burlington, a large and handsome solid silver cup, the work of the Gorham Manufacturing Co., to be entitled "The Gov. McCullough Cup," on which will be inscribed yearly the name of the class returning the largest percentage of its living members during the commencement week.

LAW FOR THE RICH ONLY.

The Boycott is illegal, but the Blacklist is Not.

The supreme court of the United States has decided that for members of a labor union to agree among themselves that they will not patronize an individual, firm or company that will deal with them as unionists is a restraint of trade and consequently forbidden by law.

On Jan. 23 the same court decided that it was not contrary to law for a corporation to refuse to patronize members of a labor union because they were members of the union and that a statute, declaring this to be unlawful conflicted with the constitution and was null and void.

The law bearing upon the relations of trades unions and employers of labor is thus definitely and authoritatively interpreted by the court of last resort—boycott is unlawful; to blacklist is not.

The law declared unconstitutional on Jan. 23 was known as the Erdman act. It was limited in its scope. It applied only to railroad corporations engaged in interstate commerce. It forbade the dismissal of employees because they were members of a labor union by such corporations.

In that case there was no question of a restraint of trade. The theory of the law as enacted by congress was that railroad employees and other workmen have a right to organize for their own protection and for the betterment of their condition and that it was contrary to public policy to dismiss them from employment for exercising that right.

Railroad companies are given the valuable privilege of establishing public highways and collecting the toll thereon. In return for this they are presumed to owe peculiar obligations to the public. One of these obligations would be to carry on their business in a manner approved by public policy.

But the court held that the Erdman law was a violation of the right of contract and could not stand. The railroad corporations had the right to buy the labor of whom they pleased and if they objected to labor unions could dismiss the members thereof from their employ as they pleased.

But when labor unions refuse to patronize or employ indirectly men to make their backs because they are non-union men that is a restraint of trade and contrary to law.

That is the law. The supreme court of the United States has so declared, and there is no disputing that decision and no appeal from it.

But it is not a fair, impartial or just law that approves the blacklist and condemns the boycott.
